With F.M.L.

Thanks to Mr. Gresak, the Comissioners Court in a December called meeting did not totally abandon policy toward low bidding on county service and product.

The merits of a unit system of county government are more apparent when a Commissioners Court majority will piddle around on funds for an antique jail and accept a bid $1,000 over another for a county service.

NOW-NOW-NOW

NOW thanks. . . .

Kubiak Predicts Special Session For Legislature

The 62nd Texas legislature convened in Austin Tuesday faced with more than 3,000 new bills scheduled to be introduced in the House. Dan Kubiak, representative for Milam, Falls and Robertson counties, said it appeared that this would be one of the most difficult sessions known to modern times.

"The constitution states that we will be in session for 140 days," Kubiak said, "But very few of us believe we will finish all the controversial legislation before the deadline in May.

Kubiak said he anticipates that the legislative boundaries will be one of the toughest tasks before the legislature. Also expected to be a stumbling block is the state budget. "The Legislative Budget Board now has pushed the estimated new revenue needed to $645.1 million, and some think that this will approach the billion dollar mark," Kubiak said. He said that he would not support a bill of this size. "I have said before that I will oppose any non-essential expenditures in this budget. Economy must start with the government," Kubiak said, "and it is time to start now."

Kubiak said the major issues facing the 62nd Legislature would be:

A multi-billion dollar state budget;

Congressional, Legislative, and Judicial redistricting of the state;

Liquor-by-the drink legislation;

Welfare programs including an increase in the $80 million a year calling on categorical assistance payments;

Revision of auto insurance regulations;

Laws to curb drug use and prevent crime in the State of Texas;

Air and water pollution controls and environmental legislation;

Proposed out-of-state tuition hikes at state universities.

Drilling Starts On Two New Milam Wildcats

Drilling was under way late last week on two new wildcats in different sections of Milam County.

Rig was moved in for Feboco Oil Corporation's No. 1 Gibson Unit and the wildcat was spudded early in the week. There was some delay in rigging up due to a wheel collapsing on the truck hauling in the rig only about 25 feet from the drillsite. The wildcat was drilling ahead at last report.

Location of the No. 1 Gibson Unit is on a 40 acre lease in William E. Harris Survey about 9,150 feet west of Wildcat bridge on the Brazos River. Permit depth is 2,200 feet.

The second wildcat now drilling is the White Shield Oil & Gas Corporation No. 1 H. H. Coffield in south Milam County in the Milbur Field area.

White Shield scheduled this wildcat early in December, but apparently encountered delays in starting drilling operations. Location is on a 40 acre lease in Eliza Sante Survey 6 miles south of Milano. It is permitted to 4,000 feet and has the Navarro as its objective.

No report of the Coffield's drilling depth was available.

The wildcat is located 2,500 feet southwest of White Shield's No. 1 P. H. Perry, which the corporation brought in as a good producer several months ago. White Shield also recently completed its No. 1 W. P. Hogan in D. H. Van Veighton Survey in the area as an oiler.

Kalkbrenner Retires

Dual Career For Minister, Tax Officer

Some would say it couldn't be done, but Illinois born Robert Kalkbrenner came south to successfully combine careers in the ministry and as a deputy tax collector.

He officially retired as deputy tax officer on December 31 though he has agreed to stay on temporarily and on a part-time basis until a successor is named. His work as a supply minister for the United Churches of Christ will continue "as long as they need me."

Kalkbrenner says both fields of work have been rewarding. As a tax officer: "The people here are pretty pleasant about paying their county taxes. They know they are reasonable. And the relationship with tax office personnel has been very nice." As pastor: "I particularly enjoy working with the choirs and weddings are a special time."

Kalkbrenner first saw central Texas as a member of the Eden, Missouri Seminary glee club while on a concert tour of the southwest. He had graduated from Elmhurst College in Illinois and followed in the footsteps of his father (and four brothers) with seminary work to prepare for the ministry.

His next trip to Texas, in 1927, was to accept his first assignment as a minister in the Evangelical Church. "They needed a Germany speaking minister for the churches in Ben Arnold and Burlington," Kalkbrenner recalled, "and I came from a German speaking background."

His father was born in Germany, came to the United State for seminary training and stayed as a minister for German communities in Illinois. His mother was also of German background and this was the language spoken at home as well as in the churches his father served.

"My first 10 years in Milam County our services were in German, then we gradually converted to English" Kalkbrenner said. A personal change was from bachelor status to family man. He married Ena Kozel, a native of Ben Arnold, and they have one son who now lives in Temple.

RETIRED - but not for long. Robert Kalkbrenner retired as a deputy tax officer for Milam County on December 31, only to return to work January 4 "on a temporary, part-time basis." He has been deputy tax officer for 24 years and as an ordained minister serves area United Churches of Christ as a supply pastor.

After 19 years as minister of the Evangelical Churches in Ben Arnold and Burlington (later changed to the Evangelical and Reformed and now a part of the United Churches of Christ), he retired because of his health.

But retirement didn't last long. His friend Valter White was elected county tax assessor-collector and Kalkbrenner agreed to help him get started. "I could add 2 and 2 and I felt that I would enjoy the work." Enjoy it he did, and he stayed on for 24 years.

In 1950 he also returned to preaching. "The minister that replaced me in the Ben Arnold and Burlington churches stayed only two years and they asked me to return as their minister," Kalkbrenner said. "I agreed to if they would combine the two churches." The Burlington sanctuary was moved to Ben Arnold and Kalkbrenner devoted the next years to two full time jobs, as a deputy tax officer and minister.

The responsibilities were heavy, and Kalkbrenner again resigned as Ben Arnold pastor. Since that time he has helped area churches as a supply minister when they were without resident pastors. He was a supply minister for the church in Marlin for almost a year and has assisted the church at Lions for about 5 years.

Now that he is free of the "8 to 5" routine, Kalkbrenner plans to devote more time to 'avocations'. He bowls with the Maple League (helping to win his teams 12 trophies); helps tend his son's cattle which are kept on his land; sings with community choirs; collects coins and stamps; and with his wife collects antique glass and china.

The Kalkbrenners also make regular trips back to the family home in Illinois to visit brothers and sisters. He is from a family of ten who added 5 ministers to the Evangelical Church. Three brothers are ministers in Illinois (one retired) and one is pastor of a church in Orange, New Jersey.

School 'Want List'....

We look forward to the study by officials of Cameron Independent School District.

It is time that a longer view and piece meal construction be melded with what a long view will show.

Schools all around Milam County are meeting needs, as Caldwell defeated a $1.3 million issue, then approved a $650,000 issue last week. Rosebud-Lott is starting a new junior-senior high at Travis.

Round Rock is building a new plant. Gatesville in recent years finished a new high school. Taylor, Temple, Rockdale among other area schools built new plants in the 1950's and 1960's.

Cameron's last program was in the mid-'50s when O. J. Thomas (now Cameron Junior High) and Ben Milam School were built. Considerable expansion has been done in band hall, homemaking department, Yoe High School modification, organizing a real junior high. But other needs like cafeteria-auditorium and perhaps even additional classroom space still pop up on the "want list."

We are sure CISD officials will do a good job.

Filing Fee Alternatives...

Alternatives for paying costs of primaries are not too many.

One is a return to some kind of registration tax or "poll tax" which also has been ruled unconstitutional.

Another is a proposal to pay for cost of national elections and possible even local primaries by a $1 payment on each federal income tax return, which was knocked down in the U. S. Senate.

Another still is funding from state treasuries or county or city or school, depending on the election where a primary is held.

One good thing will come of the declared unconstitutionality of candidates' paying "exorbitant" filing fees. Additional Texas candidates free from of the $500 to $1,800 will be able to get on primary tickets and spend their money campaigning.

We anticipate some participation of candidates on a flat fee basis, not based on salaries, which are rising, and the balance paid out of party coffers collected from loyalists active, but not in elective partisan office.

If money is donated from state or federal coffers, all kinds of fragmentary parties will develop, which, uncontrolled, is dangerous. This is the weakness that precipitated France's fall in 1940 and which allows militant minorities to force coalition of more representative factions to weakended or even radical positions.

Major political parties are examining their support in view of the 18-year-old vote, mobile population and rising independence.

Qualified candidates are more likely to be found campaigning as filing fees disappear or at least diminish. Good government at every level may well find some excellent, independent candidates in primaries. It would help.

Aid to Communist Countries

I would appreciate your explaining to me the policy of the U.S. Government on aid to communist countries. I know we have provided assistance in the past to Poland, Yugoslavia, and Romania.

A.G.
Indianapolis, Ind.

Dear A.G.:

The United States Agency for International Development (AID) does not provide assistance to communist countries. However, surplus agricultural commodities are made available in Poland through private American voluntary agencies for school and child feeding programs. Occasional humanitarian relief has been authorized for Poland and Yugoslavia. This includes relief for the May 1963 earthquake at Skoplje, Yugoslavia, and limited contributions of excess U.S.-owned Polish currencies for a privately American-sponsored children's hospital at Krakow, Poland.

Previous aid program commitments to Poland and Yugoslavia, initiated during periods in which those nations began to turn away from the monolithic rule of the Soviet Union, were terminated in 1959 and 1962, respectively. Concessional sales of surplus agricultural commodities under Public Law 480 (the Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954, as amended) were ended to those countries in 1964 and 1967, respectively.

Basic U.S. policy on aid to communist countries is stated in Section 620(f) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended: "No assistance shall be furnished under this Act, as amended...to any communist country. This restriction may not be waived pursuant to any authority contained in this Act unless the President finds and promptly reports to Congress that: (1) such assisance is vital to the security of the United States; (2) the recipient country is not controlled by the international communist conspiracy; and (3) such assistance will further promote the independence of the recipient country from international communism..."

Section 639 of the same Act states that no other provision of the Act "shall be construed to prohibit assistance to any country for famine or disaster relief" and thus provides the basis for such relief to communist as well as other countries.

About five percent of all police officers are women. Almost all are employed by large city police departments where their work frequently involves handling cases dealing with juveniles and women.

Artist Is Speaker For Service League

"Most people overlook the beauty around them. Forms, color and nature can add so much to our daily lives if we take the time to really look around and enjoy our surroundings," James Brock told Arts and Service League members Thursday afternoon.

Brock, a sculptor who works in wood and bronze and western scene painter, was guest speaker for the Arts and Service League January meeting at the home of Mrs. Tommy Corley.

"Charles Russell wrote that any man that can make a living doing what he likes is a lucky man," Brock said, "and I feel that I am fortunate." He said he had been interested in wood carving and sketching from childhood. He worked as a cowboy and rodeo performer and later at training horses. "The falls started hurting more and I wasn't getting back up as fast," Brock said, and at this point his interest in art was rekindled.

On a trip to New Mexico he met western artist Kelley Pruitt. They worked together on a piece of wax sculpture and Pruitt, impressed with Brock's work, suggested that a Taos gallery handle his sculptures. The Cameron artists bronze sculptures of cattle, cowboys, horses and Indians of the southwest now share places of honor in private art collections across the United States.

No stranger to hard work, Brock said he usually gets in "several hours at his studio" before breakfast. He displayed a sculpture, a bust of a woman holding a book that he has titled 'teacher', and explained that it had required more than 200 hours to complete. It is carved from a cedar block estimated to be about 55 years old.

Brock said Cameron had been good to him and he was anxious to repay their interest in his work. "The studio brings visitors to Cameron and they often spend the night here," Brock said. "And where ever my work goes, people learn there is a 'Cameron, Texas' because that is enscribed on the base of each bronze." Brock said he anticipated building a foundry addition to his gallery-studio on the Old Waco Highway.

He said "My gallery is always open to the people in Cameron and it is a pleasure for me to show my work."

Brock also described the process of converting a wax sculpture into a finished bronze piece. He said a small piece required several days and numerous steps by a well trained foundry worker. "We have come a long way in most technology," Brock said, "but we are still using the process for bronzing that was developed by the Chinese more than a thousand years ago."

During a business meeting reports were given on arrangements for showing childrens movies which will be sponsored by the Arts and Service League and a March luncheon-fashion show.

Mrs. John B. Henderson, Jr. said the childrens movies had been set for the third Saturday of each month, January through April, at the Methodist Fellowship Hall.

Mrs. Bill Dase, chairman of the March luncheon announced committee chairman and fashion show models.

Following the program a salad plate was served by co-hostesses, Mrs. Bernay Dusek and Mrs. Corley, to the 19 members and two guests present.

YARD OF THE MONTH - Fluer de lis Garden Club presented the Ladis Mareks with the Yard of the Month plaque for January. The Marek home at 705 E. 11th St. is a serene setting of green shrubs and trees outlined with trimmed 'monkey' grass. Accepting the plaque are Mrs. Ladis Marek, Jr., Anne Marie and Mr. Marek.

Dish Made To Please Men Features Thrifty Chicken

There are women who dress for men, and women who cook for men—hearty, savory, robust dishes to cheer a man after a hard day. Chicken Stew with Onions is just that kind of cooking. It is old-fashioned in flavor with a rich, creamy sauce and lots of onions. For all its fine flavor this chicken stew is a thoroughly thrifty dish. Everybody knows chicken is an economical buy, but did you know that chicken has a protein content that no other meat exceeds and few can equal? It is protein of the highest quality, too, says the National Broiler Council. Put all this good nutrition before your man in a dish he is sure to like.

Chicken Stew With Onions

- 2 broiler-fryer chickens, cut in serving pieces
- 3 cups water
- 2½ teaspoons salt
- 1 cup coarsely cut celery tops
- 3 sprigs parsley
- ½ teaspoon dried leaf tarragon
- 5 medium onions, sliced
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 cup evaporated milk, divided
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2 egg yolks
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice

Put chicken in kettle; add water, salt, celery, parsley and tarragon. Bring to a boil; cover tightly. Reduce heat and simmer 1 hour. Remove chicken to casserole; keep warm. Strain broth and boil rapidly until reduced to 2½ cups. Cook onions in butter until slightly brown; add to chicken in casserole. Blend ½ cup of the evaporated milk with flour until smooth. Add to stock and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Beat together remaining ½ cup evaporated milk and egg yolks. Add to hot stock and stir until slightly thickened. Stir in lemon juice and pour over chicken. Serve sprinkled with chopped parsley.

YIELD: 8 servings.

Budget Stretches Food $$

By Christine Laws

Make plans now to stretch your 1971 food dollar. By planning and organizing the food budget, the important job of feeding your family is simplified.

A good motto to remember when buying food is "Know Why When You Buy". Follow a basic plan and keep informed concerning the foods you expect to buy.

If there's one thing a shopper likes, it's a bargain. And bargains are found in the food market. But the job of deciding when a bargain is really a good buy is sometimes not as easy as it seems. A good buy involves a lot of consideration. Of course, it involves price. And price includes quality -- getting the best quaulty for intended use and amount of money spent.

Top quality may not always be the best value. Select quality according to the use you expect to make of the product.

Protect your budget by using leftovers. Failure to utilize leftovers is like having a hole in your pocket. In both cases, you are losing money. Efficient homemakers look over their leftovers, not overlook them. All that is needed to make a nutritious, appealing meal from leftovers is a little ingenuity on the part of the meal planner.

SEWING MACHINES

Do you ever sit down at your machine to sew and have everything go wrong? This dilemma can easily be avoided by giving your machine routine checkups.

Sewing macnines should be cleaned regularly. To perform well, a machine needs to be kept lint-free and oiled. To clean, use a soft brush to remove lint and loose threads. Then apply a drop of oil to all points which normally need oiling. Remove excess oil by stitching on scraps of fabric.

When the machine seems to be performing slower than usual, the gears may need lubrication. Apply the lubricant according to directions in your sewing macine instruction booklet.

When the top tension thread keeps breaking, rethread the machine. If this doesn't help, check for correct needle size and length, then see if the needle was inserted properly. If you still have trouble loosen the upper tension. Sometimes the thread is not the correct size for the needle or fabric.

If the bobbin thread breaks, the thread may not be wound evenly on the bobbin or it may be wound too full. Also, the tension may be too tight.

When the machine skips stitches, check for correct needle size and proper needle insertion. The thread may be too coarse for the needle. Again check the tension; it may be too tight.

Outstanding among these have been an afternoon with Tom Henderson, southwestern representative of Royal Doulton china, and a Christmas program in song and story presented by Mrs. Tommy Corley and Mrs. Hilliard Thomas.

On January 12 in the home of Mrs. E. A. Perrin, the guest speaker was Mr. Ed Magre. His topic was "Women with the Confederate home front." Eleven members and two guest appreciated anew the spirit of women during Civil War days.

Just add the sauce, spiced with cinnamon and cloves, to browned arm or blade lamb chops. Cover the frying-pan and braise for an appetite arousing, colorful entree.

Lamb can be put on the menu in an especially economical manner when shoulder chops are selected, according to Reba Staggs, home economist for the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

CHAMBERLAIN MEAT CO.

BUSINESS REVIEW

Chamberlain's Assures Complete Customer Satisfaction

Double wrapping is still normal operating procedure of processed meat at Chamberlain's Meat Co. 1200 East Gillis St.

It is another assurance to customers that top service goes with the high quality Chamberlain Meat Co. provides.

The custom slaughtering and processing plant is the only one in Cameron inspected and approved under the terms of the Wholesome Meat Law, the new federal-state requirement in effect.

An inspector comes to the plant each day and inspects animals before and after slaughter, also checking cleanliness of the plant.

Beef for the home freezer is available by the quarter, half or whole carcass -- cut according to customer specification, double wrapped and frozen.

"We assure customer satisfaction by doing a little more for him, such as the double wrapping," owner Tommy Chamberlain emphasizes. "The customer demands service, demands high standards in our plant operation and we meet those demands."

Combined experience of Tommy and his wife, Mrs. Chamberlain and staff totals about 30 years. Some employees joined him when he purchased the plant a half dozen years ago.

Chamberlain's feedlot experience, about eight years, and cattle and professional background assure his ability to choose the finest animals for customers. He maintains an inventory of cattle at his feedlot and is able to offer a selection to the discriminating buyer.

Savings of 15 to 20 percent over retail prices await the customer at Chamberlain Meat Co. And housewives appreciate the wide variety of meat on hand.

Chamberlain Meat even goes so far as to "inter-leave" meat layers, assuring ease of separating steaks in the defrosting process.

Advice is available, when desired, on ways to cut meat, but customers can specify how they want it cut, and that's it.

Customers keep coming back to Chamberlain's and new ones each year are basis for the growth over the past six years.

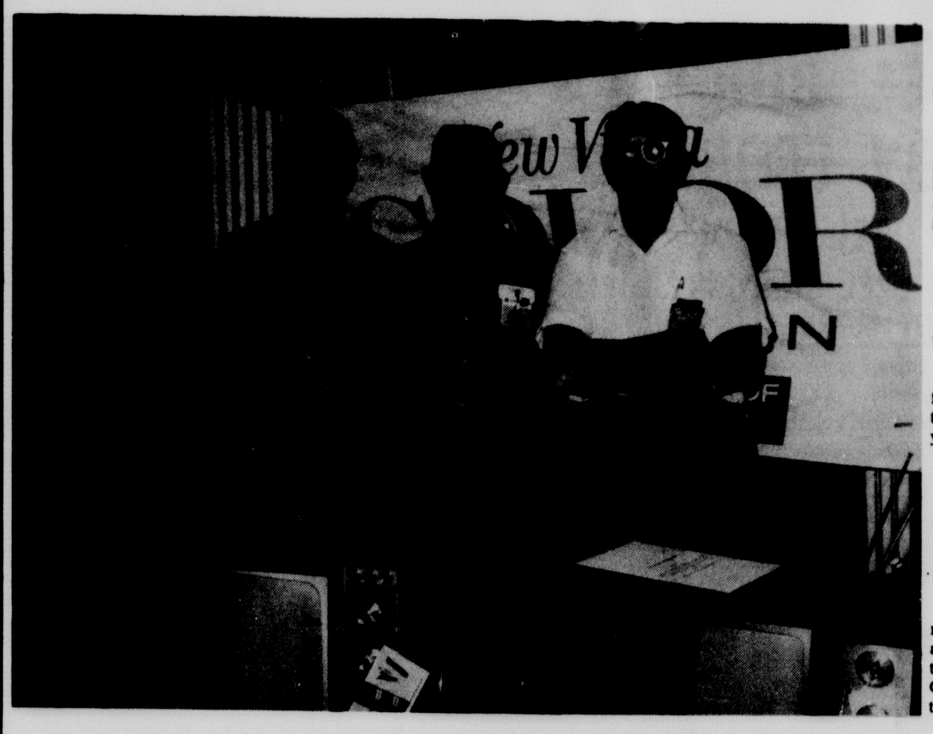
Andersons'-Cameron's Television And Appliance Center

Anderson's of Cameron, television and appliance center, looks ahead.

With franchises like Friedrich, Chrysler air conditioners, Maytag and GE appliances, RCA television sets, Zenith products, it pays the Milam area customer to look ahead in TV, air conditioning and appliance future with them.

Anderson's stock includes a complete line of home and auto tape players, stereo 8 track tapes, gas and electric heaters, water coolers, small appliances, radios and beautiful color television sets.

The service department is one of the keys to Anderson's growth in his present location at 122 North Houston.



Owner Joe Anderson heads the service department assisted by Bill Baggerly on television technology and Manuel Mendoza, "the all-round serviceman."

Anderson and his service personnel keep in touch with the latest techniques by attending service schools given by manufacturers. And these men read bulletins published by various manufacturers, and not just those sold in the retail section of the store.

The Andersons operated a Jeep auto franchise until 1952, when they entered the TV business. Having difficulty getting a set serviced at home, Anderson started his own operation.

The store has expanded in at least two locations during the past 18 years to the modern layout of 1971 merchandise at 122 Houston.

Anderson's dropped "TV" from their business name when they relocated two and one-half years ago.

A comfortable seating area is available to customers in the TV and stereo departments allowing full view and audience to the array of TV and stereo equipment in the store.

With Anderson's investment in modern TV, air conditioning and appliance inventory, it is easy to see they have confidence in Cameron and Milam County's future.

FC Insures 147 Milam Farm Crops

With the many "if's" present in today's agriculture outlook, more and more Milam County farmers are turning to the stabilizing influence of crop investment insurance to make certain of a guaranteed income.

Arthur Kessler, field representative for the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation from the district office in Waco, says insurance safeguards now are available on cotton and grain sorghum in the county to help guarantee a cash return at harvest.

Some 147 crops in the county already are protected by the All-Risk insurance with their owners underwriting $180,507 in guaranteed agriculture income no matter what natural hazard should destroy the crops between planting and harvest.

Despite the relatively good crop year just past, losses were paid in most areas of the state due principally to freeze, excess moisture, hurricane, insects and drought. In McLennan County the insured losses totalled $15,334 according to official estimates.

FCIC insured farmers are using their insurance not only to protect crop investment dollars, but to strengthen credit, to reduce specilization risks, to aid in long-term financing of expansion programs and to allow maximum use of operating capital.

Texas farmers pledged more than $3,051,000 in crop insurance protection last year to secure farm operating loans. On a national basis this total was more than $60 million.

Complete details about the insurance program, sponsored by the U. S. Department of Agriculture agency, may be obtained at no obligation by contacting Kessler. He may be reached through the FCIC District office or by contacting the local ASCS or Extension offices.

Official 'Record-Size' Fish Listed

Records Offer Anglers Opportunities

AUSTIN

Catching a record-sized fish in Texas may not be as difficult as one might expect.

In fact, record fish probably are going unrecognized into frying pans all over the state each year.

But now that a newly-formed committee of Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials has taken over the official list of salt and freshwater fish records, the state's anglers have the opportunity to get into the record book by catching species for which there presently is no recorded champion.

The committee's first official act, after taking the records over from the Texas Outdoor Writers Association, was to set minimum weights for the fish species that are "open."

For instance, one record which is bound to be filled soon is in the flathead (or yellow) catfish category. The category is "open and the minimum weight requirement is 35 pounds. Every spring, flatheads of that size and larger are caught by fishermen.

Other records could conceivably be broken scon simply because the current record-holder is not exceptionally large. One example is the present record carp, a 23-pound, 12 ounce specimen. Larger ones may be caught during the coming year, perhaps nearer to the size of the carp speared with bow and arrow last April by David Smith of Austin for the record in the unrestricted division. It weighed in at 14 pounds, 12 ounces.

The unrestricted division (which is also new) recognizes record fish taken by legal means other than rod and reel. This includes trotlines, cane poles, handline, spear, gig and archery.

One category in the unrestricted division was accidentally omitted in the list of present records published by the Department on Dec. 14. This was the alligator gar record of 302 pounds held by T. C. Pierce Sr. of San Antonio and Albert Wolley, address unknown. The fish, measuring 7 feet, 6 inches in length, was caught on a trotline in the Nueces River above Cotulla in 1953.

That's one record not likely to be broken soon. Likewise for the rod and reel record for alligator gar -- a 279 pound monster caught in the Rio Grande in 1951.

Some of the other 'open' freshwater fish categories and the minimum weights set by the committee are: blue catfish, 50 pounds; black crappie, 4 pounds; freshwater drum, 15 pounds; pickerel (chain or grass), 3 pounds; Northern pike, 5 pounds; walleye, 5 pounds.

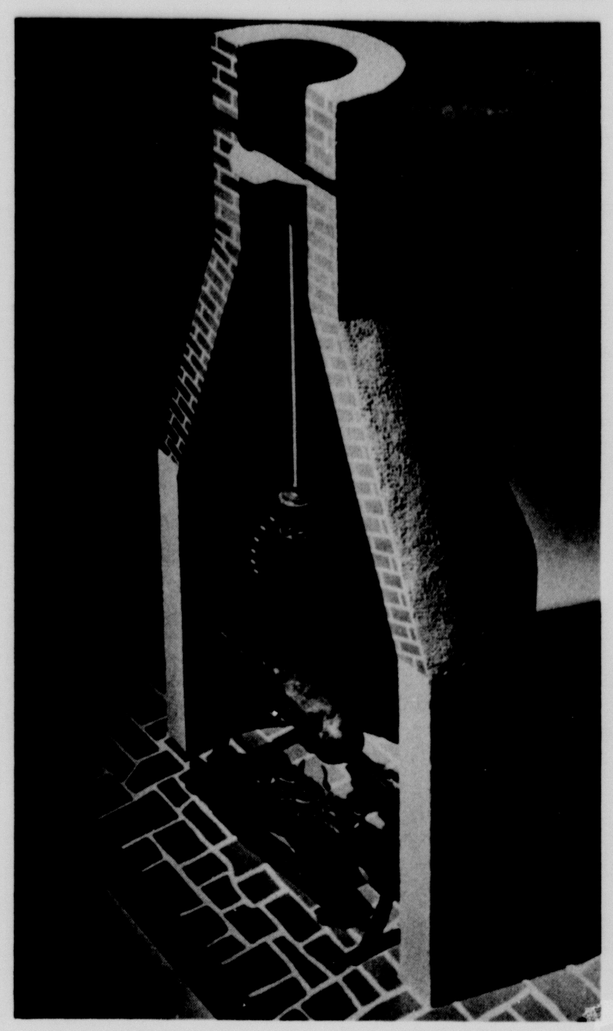
Saltwater open categories include: Amberjack, 50 pounds; barracuda, 20 pounds; striped bass, 10 pounds; blue fish, 5 pounds; bonefish, no minimum; croaker, 3 pounds; jack crevalle, 20 pounds; ladyfish (skipjack), 3 pounds; pompano, 5 pounds; cero mackerel, 10 pounds; blue runner, 5 pounds; mako shark, 200 pounds; shark (to be considered when species are proposed); sheepshead, 10 pounds; red snapper, 25 pounds; spadefish, 1 pound; broadbilled swordfish, no minimum; tripletail, 15 pounds; and whiting, 2 pounds.

Fish submitted as state records must be weighed on an inspected scale (certified for trade by the Texas Department of Agriculture) with statement of weight signed by two witnesses, one of whom must be a disinterested person. The statement must include, in inches and fractions, the length and girth of the fish. A photo, or clipping of a published photo of the fish must be included for positive verification.

Persons submitting the fish must list where the fish was taken, the date, type of fishing equipment, home address, and business and home telephone numbers.

The most recent addition to the list of saltwater fish records was in one of the "open" categories. It was a 115-pound yellowfin tuna caught off Port Isabel on Aug. 1, 1970, by Mrs. Frank Evans of Port Aransas. The tuna beat the minimum weight for the species set by the committee by 15 pounds.

In the freshwater book, the most recent addition was a 16 pound, 12 ounce bowfin caught in Lake Murvaul Oct. 18, 1970 by Joe Woods of Richardson.



AUTOMATIC SPIT -- Roasting spits were known in various automatic and semi-automatic forms since ancient times. In this version Leonardo da Vinci shows knowledge of the principle of convection, since the spit turns through the action of the rising hot air on the fan set in the chimney flue. This and 17 other models built from Da Vinci's scientific and technical drawings are on view through Jan. 30 in Strecker Museum on Baylor University's Waco campus. The museum, situated in the basement of the Sid Richardson Science Building, is open from 9 a.m. to noon and 2 to 5 p.m. weekdays and from 9 a.m. to noon Saturdays. There is no admission charge.

Mental Health Benefits

Information about mental health benefits included in Medicare and Medicaid is presented in a new booklet prepared by the National Institute of Mental Health, Health Services and Mental Health Administration, U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Provisions for the mentally and emotionally ill under Medicare and Medicaid are outlined in detail in question and answer form.

Medicare, established by Title 18 of the Social Security Act, offers two coordinated programs of health insurance for almost everyone 65 or older—a basic hospital insurance plan, and a voluntary, supplementary medical insurance plan.

Title 19 of the Act established Medicaid. In States that have adopted this program, Federal aid is provided for specific medical services for persons who are receiving, or are eligible for, welfare payments under a State's federally assisted welfare programs.

It also may cover the medically indigent, people who do not need assistance to meet their daily needs but who cannot manage the added burden of medical expenses.

"Mental Health Benefits of Medicaid," Public Health Service Publication No. 1505, summarizes the substance of the two programs as they relate specifically to benefits for psychiatric care.

It is intended as an aid for those in a position to advise people about mental health benefits available to them.

Interested persons in mental health work may write for a free copy to the National Institute of Mental Health, Distribution Unit (HH-LL02), Office of Communications, 5454 Wisconsin Avenue, Chevy Chase, Maryland 20015.

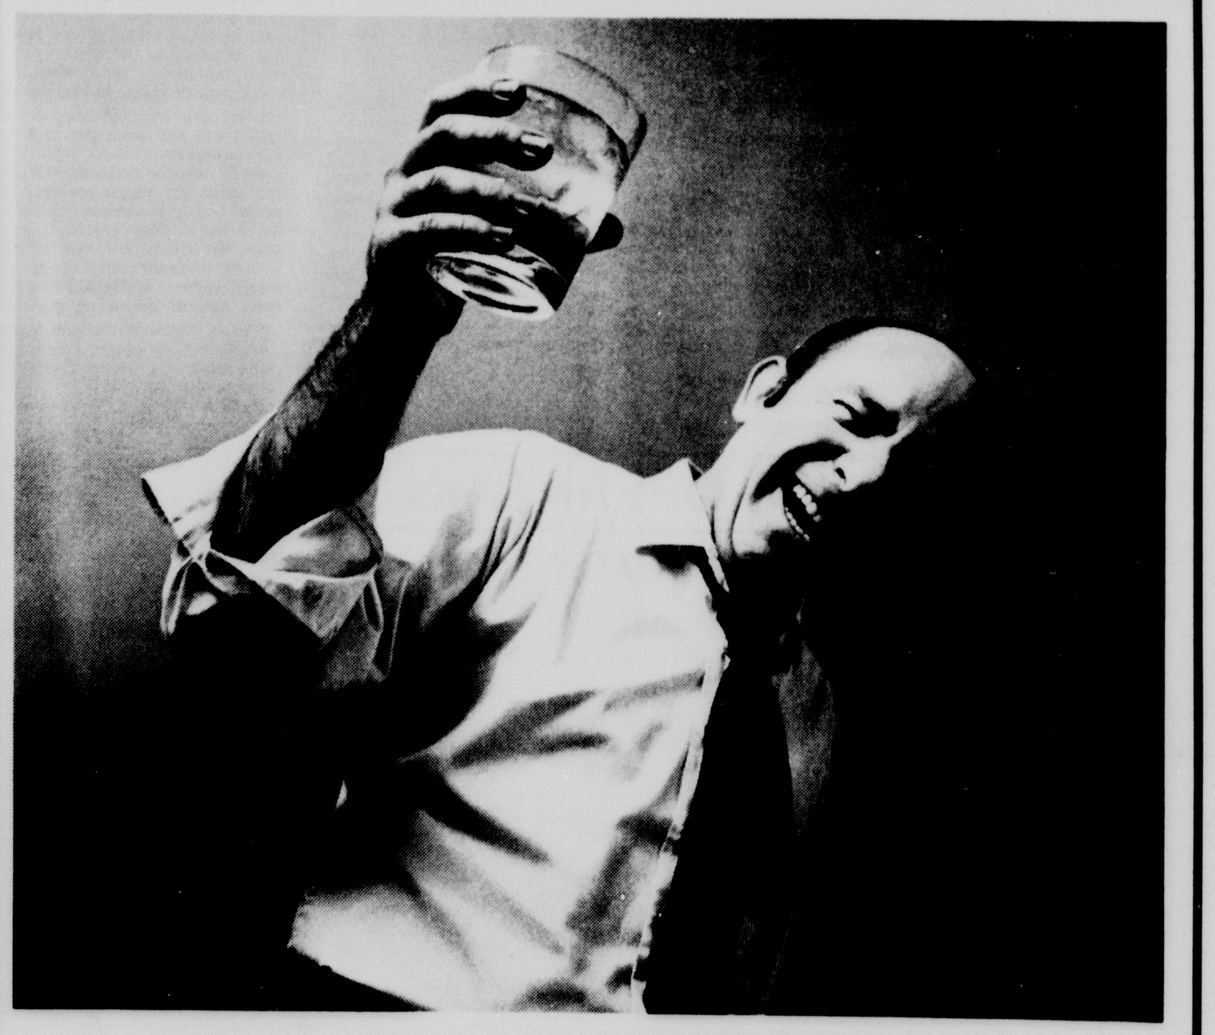
IT'S A CLEAR CASE OF LOVE AT FIRST FLIGHT!



Once he gets on the road, there'll be no peace on earth.

Fred celebrates the holidays pretty strenuously. Getting rather high. And even three cups of coffee won't bring him down. Another car will.

No one wants to preach at Fred, especially when he's having a good time. So they'll feed him coffee and send him on his merry way. Which probably means a wide awake drunk, weaving along the highway.

We don't want to preach either. But your new car dealer does care. He knows the sobering truth that drinking is a factor in 800,000 traffic accidents every year...and in 25,000 deaths every year, nearly half of all traffic fatalities. So before the 'Auld Lang Syne' is over, don't forget: the only way to control a car during the partying season is to control your partying.

Don't drive if you've been drinking. Instead, think of Fred...resting in peace by the side of the road.

'Texas' Auditions Slated At Four Area Colleges

CANYON

A cold wind may be whistling along the icy walls of Palo Duro Canyon, but there are some in the Panhandle country already looking toward warmer days.

The Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation is looking for actors, singers and dancers for their famous production, "TEXAS," performed in the Outdoor Theater in Palo Duro Canyon State Park during the summer months. Danny Thweatt, formerly of Maysfield was in the summer production while a student at Sam Houston State.

"TEXAS" is a musical drama by Paul Green about the settling of the Panhandle in Texas. Last year more than 78,000 persons saw the production.

Directors say they will be looking for command of the stage, a voice that can be heard outdoors and actors who understand character motivation and who can convey a variety of emotion. The minimum age is 18.

Actors must be prepared to give a memorized reading, not to exceed three minutes. They will double as members of the chorus, and all must audition for singing as well as acting roles. The "TEXAS" production is outdoors and does not use microphones.

Men and women with ballet, modern dance and/or body movement training are desired for dancers. However, experience and training are not required. Applicant should bring appropriate work-out clothing.

Applicants for singers should bring one prepared number which will show the singing voice to its best advantage. An accompanist will be furnished or the singer may bring his own. Many singers will double in minor speaking roles and/or technician assistants, so each singer must present a short memorized selection to display the quality of the speaking voice.

Those applying for technician positions should present a profile of past accomplishments in the theatre at the audition.

The production also needs persons to play the violin, banjo, string bass, accordian and guitar.

Company members are placed under a written contract and must be available for the entire season. There are approximately 100 salaried positions.

The first rehearsal is May 23, and the last show is Aug. 28.

Audition dates are:

Jan. 8, at 1 p.m. at the Fine Arts Building at West Texas State University;

Jan. 16, 10 a.m. and 1 p.m., at the Fine Arts Building at West Texas State University.

Jan. 24 at the Women's Gym at Texas Tech University;

Feb. 27 at the Drama Department at El Centro College;

March 7 in Oklahoma City.

More information may be obtained by writing "TEXAS," Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79105 or calling 806-655-2182.
